Collegiate 4-H members needed to help staff the National 4-H Curriculum Summit

June 12-14, 2007

National 4-H Youth Conference Center
Chevy Chase, MD

Over the next year, the National 4-H Curriculum System will be undergoing major changes in the ways that curricula are developed and implemented. A National 4-H Curriculum Summit to provide momentum for 4-H faculty and staff to foster improvements as we transition our national curriculum processes. These improvements include:

- materials to attract and retain a population of youth more reflective of the diversity of our society;
- exploration of delivery methods and curricular strategies for the development of subject area competencies; and
- the incorporation of effective youth development models and principles to assist youth in the application of knowledge and the development of those "soft skills" important to succeed.

We are looking for approximately 12-15 dedicated Collegiate 4-H'ers to work with the planning committee as meeting hosts and facilitators. Travel, accommodations and a small stipend will be included.

Want to be part of the change for future 4-H educational materials — then this is the opportunity for you!
