

“Continuing to Share · Sharing to Continue”

The national motto of Collegiate 4-H reflects our goals to provide service to youth, enrich lives through community service, develop leadership at the collegiate level, and enhance personal development. Organization at the national level consists of a five-voting-member National Action Board comprised of four regional presidents and the national conference coordinator. Regionally, we are comprised of the four USDA CES regions, with each region holding its own regional conference and electing officers. At the local level, we can be found on public and private institutions, both four-year and two-year campuses. We are a national organization of young persons dedicated to helping the next generation of youth learn the 4-H's.

The National
Collegiate 4-H
Organization

For contact information and a listing of the current National Action Board members, please visit our website at:

www.collegiate4h.org

Special thanks to Oklahoma State University Collegiate 4-H

The National
Collegiate 4-H
Organization

www.collegiate4h.org

Collegiate 4-H: Continuing to Share Sharing to Continue

Many people throughout the world are familiar with 4-H, the service learning organization for youth ages 8-18 symbolized by the green four-leaf clover with four H's within it. The dedication to the betterment of the Head, Heart, Hands and Health practiced by 4-H'ers doesn't stop when you reach the age of 19, instead it is only a stepping-stone into a bright future filled with leadership success, community service opportunities, fun times, travel, and college memories that will last a lifetime.

Collegiate 4-H began in 1916 on the Oklahoma State University campus as an "after-dinner club" for students who had enjoyed a rewarding career in 4-H and wanted to get together with friends from across the state and relive their 4-H days. From these beginnings, the organization officially formed into what is now known as the National Collegiate 4-H Organization in 1971. Our official symbol is the 4-H clover capped by a Mortar Board to indicate our graduation from 4-H into an institution of higher learning.

Like our parent organization, 4-H, Collegiate 4-H instills in its college-aged membership a sense of pride and responsibility in one's community through service learning opportunities. Conferences, workshops, and speakers teach us new and innovative ways to be leaders among our peers. True to our 4-H roots, we work with local, state, and national 4-H youth to help prepare them for the future.

Along with our community service efforts and leadership endeavors, we also have fun-filled social activities, regional conferences, retreats and national conferences. Collegiate 4-H allows its members to make valuable contacts for their futures along with lifelong friends from all across the country.

Collegiate 4-H gives college students a morally responsible peer group with a common background and similar interests to support each other as well as opening its doors to those who have not experienced 4-H as a youth. Our membership spans across all majors, schools, ages and races.

Come share in our fun!

- Workshop presentations!
- Leadership conferences!
- College sports game days!
- Community service!
- 4-H youth development!

The National
Collegiate 4-H
Organization

For contact information and a listing of the current National Action Board members, please visit our website at:
www.collegiate4h.org